Market today

Follow US midterm election result

The SET is expected to trade sideways. An intermittent rebound may be seen, particularly in electronic stocks supported by the recovery of global tech equities alongside declining bond yields. Meanwhile, oil prices have eased following signals of progress in peace negotiations to end conflicts in both Ukraine and Iran, though volatility persists due to ongoing severe attacks. The market is also closely monitoring the US midterm election results. Technically, if the index breaks below the 1500-point level, intermittent rebounds may occur, but a reversal signal is not yet visible.

Support - Resistance: 1485/1475 – 1500/1510

Today's highlights

- Russia confirmed the schedule for a new round of peace talks with Ukraine in Abu Dhabi on Nov 10–11, 2026, with breakout sessions to negotiate a ceasefire in Kherson starting Nov 5 via a mediator, positive for anti-oil plays (GPSC, BGRIM, THAI, AAV, BA).
- The Cabinet approved a unified mass transit fare measure across all electric train lines at Bt17–45, waiving initial entry fees upon line transfers, effective throughout 2027 with a compensation budget framework of Bt5.87bn, expected to attract passenger volume and provide a positive sentiment for rail transport stocks (BTS, BEM).
- The Cabinet approved the adjustment of excise taxes on imported BEVs and REEVs to 35%, effective Jan 1, 2027, to incentivize carmakers to invest in domestic production and assembly. Over the medium to long term, this is positive for industrial estates (WHA, AMATA) and automotive stocks (AH, STANLY, SAT).
- Twenty animal feed raw material associations proposed the government temporarily relax the import ratio for corn and wheat during Feb–Aug 2027, following rising domestic corn. The short-term impact is assessed as limited as operators hold 2–3 months of inventory, while approval would benefit 2027 feed costs, positive sentiment for livestock stocks (BTG).
- UTCC lowered this year's foreign tourist arrival target by 4.5% to 31.5 million, pressured by travel costs and the Middle East crisis. However, it maintains a positive outlook for 2027, projecting tourist arrivals to rebound to 34 million (+7.9%), driven significantly by Chinese tourists who continued outstanding growth of 15.2% during 9M26. Over the long term, this remains positive for tourism stocks (ERW, AOT).

Strategy today

In the near term, we expect the SET to trade sideways, with pressure coming mainly from external uncertainty. The US midterm elections (Nov 3) warrant close monitoring, as the outcome will shape economic policy direction and global capital markets, and may carry implications for the Middle East conflict. The BoE is expected to raise rates at its upcoming meeting. On the domestic front, the market is expected to remain focused on the rolling release of 3Q26 earnings from Real Sector companies, as well as the cabinet's consideration of data center regulatory criteria. The investment strategy is therefore "Selective Buy" with an emphasis on "Buy on Dip".

Trading today

We view the SET as likely to move sideways, driven mainly by external uncertainty — particularly the US midterm elections and the Middle East situation — while the domestic market is expected to focus on 3Q26 earnings announcements. Our investment strategy is therefore "Selective Buy" with an emphasis on "Buy on Dip" across 4 trading ideas with specific positives as follows:

1. Earnings momentum plays — Short-term speculation on stock-specific positives this week, targeting stocks expected to report YoY or QoQ earnings growth in 3Q26, with Outperform ratings: TRUE, TU, GULF, KCE, OR, TIDLOR.
2. FDI & tech-infrastructure plays — Stocks set to benefit from the accelerating domestic investment cycle and the government's clean energy restructuring plan, as well as speculation on the cabinet's upcoming consideration of data center regulatory criteria: banks (BBL, KBANK, KTB), industrial estates (WHA, AMATA), electronics (DELTA, HANA, KCE), and renewable energy (GULF, GPSC, GUNKUL).
3. Geopolitical relief plays — For higher-risk-tolerant investors seeking short-term speculation: if the US midterm elections result in a divided government, the market may see some easing of geopolitical concerns, leading to lower energy costs and supporting a recovery in Middle East economic activity and purchasing power: airlines (AAV, THAI), SPP power plants (GPSC, BGRIM), and healthcare (BH, BDMS).
4. Laggard & earnings plays — A safety-focused theme targeting stocks expected to deliver strong 3Q26 earnings growth both YoY and QoQ, with share prices still lagging for a high margin of safety, and strong financial positions: AOT, AP, BCH, BDMS, CPN, TRUE, TU.

Daily Top Picks

BGRIM: Short-term catalysts include declining fuel cost trends following European gas prices and lower bond yields. The company has long-term growth opportunities through capacity expansion under PDP2026, potential Direct PPA agreements with Data Centers, and expansion into digital infrastructure and SMR businesses. Short-term TP is Bt20.00.

KCE: Short-term catalysts include global tech stock momentum and a weakening Thai baht supporting export revenues. 2H26 earnings are projected to experience continuous growth, supported by a selling price adjustment of approximately 10–12% and the expansion of HDI production capacity to meet high demand. Short-term TP is Bt68.25.
